

Go for Your Success

I rescued my career and doubled my salary two times within five years

Wherever you are, I can help.

I bounced back from having my TV bosses overlook me for great projects and reject my qualifications for promotions. I felt paralyzed, but I kept moving. After rewriting my definition of winning, I landed career-building positions that offered opportunities for growth.

A track record like mine is what people tell me they want to create.

“Please continue to encourage other young women like myself.”
— Zamora Bonner, Bennett College student

English and French speaker

A memorable speaker

“From the opening words of her talk, she took me on a dramatic ride. I felt my emotions quickly swept up in her battle. I wanted her to win over her tormentors. Her presentation made the lesson of her life and struggle understandable to everyone. Though she talked about her vulnerability, it is the memory of her strength that stays with me.”

— Liz Abzug, Executive Director, Bella Abzug Leadership Institute (New York City)
